COUNTY MEET IN CAMERON MARCH 17th AND 18th

CHAS. STANFORD GIVEN 35 YEARS IN PRISON

Imprisonment for 35 years was the verdict returned by the jury against Charlie Stanford, convicted of the murder of his brother in law, Luther Pickens, near Rockdale on December 24. The case went to the jury Thursday night at 11 o'clock.

The defendant showed no emotion as the verdict was read. His father, M. N. Stanford, and three sisters were sitting by his side as the verdict was returned. Suit for divorce had been filed by Mrs. Charlie Sanford before the shooting occured. She was present during the trial.

The defendant is 23 years of age and is a resident of Lee County. Following a separation from his wife, he went to the Pickens place on Christmas eve and made an effort to talk to his wife. An argument ensued and Luther Pickens was shot.

A motion for rehearing was filed Saturday by attorneys for defendant asking for a new trial and stated as his reasons: First that the District Judge erred in refusing to squash the indictment against the defendant because the defendant's wife testified before the Grand Jury which Grand Jury brought the indictment, the statutes providing that a wife cannot testify against her husband. Second because there was no evidence to support a judgment of murder with malice because there was no evidence of malice. Third, because the District Attorney in his argument stated a wife could testify for her husband and the defendant could have used her if he had wanted to.

Hunger Dazed Man Cared for By City Government Here

J. F. Roberts, 44, from the Ozark Mountains was found in a dazed condition Saturday between Milano and Rockdale. He was unable to walk at the time. A Cameron physician treated him and said the man's condition was due partly to starvation. He was also suffering from a sprained back which he claimed came from an effort to roll a log to build a fire Friday night before. He is being cared for by city officers.

J P. LOVE HONORED AT ANNUAL SCOUT MEET

Climaxing the program of the annual meeting of the Heart O' Texas Council held Thursday night Jan. 26 at the Kyle Hotel in Temple. E. C. Barrett of Waco and Rev J. P. Love of Cameron were each presented with the Silver Beaver Award, the highest honor conferred on any adult or scouter by the Boy Scouts of America. J. R. Nalley of Waco, a holder of the Silver Beaver also, made the presentation speeches.

Over a hundred men and women attended the meeting from fifteen different towns in the Council. The program started at four o'clock with a business session in which the administration and finance of the council was discussed by W. P. Meroney, president of the Council, and the various district chairmen, while Rev. C. E. Alexander of Temple conducted a discussion group on council program. An analysis was made of the progress made during the past year in the different committees and new and higher objectives were set for 1933. These include a greater percentage of scoutleaders and scouts to attend the annual summer encampment, more Courts of Honor in various towns, more inter-city rallies among the different troops and for the scout and patrol leaders of the different troops.

The annual report of the Scout Executive was made and showed that the council is at present better organized and is functioning better than at any time since its formation in 1924.

The evening session started with a dinner, followed by songs led by E. D. Shelton of Gatesville. President Dean Mohr of Paul Quinn College, the famous Paul Quinn quartette, two of whom were Cameron Boys, rendered several numbers. This was followed by an appeal from President Mohr for the Heart O' Texas Council to help the negro youth of the coun-

PENDING BILL WOULD ABOLISH DISTRICT COURT

Cameron and Milam county are faring badly in pending legislation before the House and Senate at Austin.

Rejurisdiction legislation affecting judicial, legislative and congressional offices in districts of whch Milam county is a part, makes radical changes in the political alignment of the county, chief among them being a bill to combine Milam and Falls county in a judicial district No. 20 and abolishing the District Court at Cameron.

The Bar Association was holding a meeting in Cameron Thursday (today) to protest the bill to abolish the court. The Legislature is following the policy of abolishing the younger courts. A counter proposal will be made to add Burleson and Robertson counties to Milam county and have Brazos added to Washington to abolish the court at Bryan.

MILAM COUNTY OBJECTS TO NEW REDISTRICTION

Legislation pending at Austin affecting adversely Milam county in the territorial alignments for Congress, Senate and House, was deplored here as expressions were heard from all sections.

The bar in session Thursday to protest the bills now pending.

Flotorial representatives would no longer hold office if a bill now pending is enacted. Jesse James of Thorndale is present incumbent. Milam county has been taken out of the Sixth Congressional District and placed in the 11th District with McLennan and Bell county.

A new Senatorial District takes Milam out of the 13th and puts the county in with Brazos and Washington, Burleson, Lee and Robertson.

Objection to these alignments have been placed before the representatives from Milam at Austin and every possible effort will be made to adjust the matter before the final enactment of the bills.

A bill pending at Austin would abolish the District Court at Cameron and give the Court to Falls county to be located at Marlin.

Economy was backing the proposal to abolish a number of District Courts in Texas.

Seventh Grade Victors

Book reports written by our class "The Seventh Grade Victors". Each member of the class wrote book reports for the outside reading. These were some of the best ones:

SILENT SCOT

The author of this book is Constance Skinner. This is a story of the Revolutionary War. I like this story because it is interesting as well as exciting.

One of the most exciting parts is when Silent Scot is captured by the British. As he was tied up, one of his captors, who claims he is one of the best shots in the world, sights an American officer. Just as he is about to shoot the officer turns his back. Later Silent Scot finds that this officer is Washington.

The best characters are Rob Roy twins. When you asked them what their names were they would answer in the same breath "Rob Roy."

The story ended with Silent Scot going hunting with Andrew Jackson.

I read all of the story in December. It took me three days to read it.

—Louie Turner.

DEFENSELESS AMERICA

The author of "Defenseless America" is Hudson Maxium. This is a study of America and the wars. I like this book because it tells of the condition of the country and the wars.

The most interesting part of this book was about M. de Bloch telling of the future wars. He said that war had become so deadly and destructive and above all was very expensive.

The best character of this book was M. de Bloch. There was no other character in the book.

The story ended by saying "We shall be able to find safety only by adequate preparation to stand alone, against the dread eventually of war."

I enjoyed reading all of the story. The length of time it took me to read this book was four days. This was because I read it in my leisure hours. I read the book about a week ago.

—Woodrow Lange.

MOTHER MACHREE

During the Christmas holidays I read the book named "Mother Machree." It was written by Rida Johnson Young. It is a story that would be read for amusement. I liked it very much and I am sure anyone else who would like to read it would find it very interesting.

Ellen McHaugh is left a widow with her small son, Brian, in Ireand and she goes to America in order to give the best advantages. She puts him in the private school of Miss Van Studdiford who consents to take him only on condition that Ellen drops out of his life. Ellen is employed in the Cutting home some years later when she discovers that Brian is going with her daughter. Edith. They plan to marry when Brian comes back from war.

The strongest character in the story is Ellen who gives up her son in order to give him the best.

Ellen wants to see her son leave for war at the last and the story ends when Ellen has seen him leave; she then dies contented.

I read the whole story in about a day and a half during the Christmas holidays. It was very interesting and I enjoyed it.

—Zora Wilkerson.

TRY AND TRUST

Horatio Alger, Jr. has written many interesting books which I have read and liked very much. "Try and Trust" was written by Horatio Alger Jr., and this book is my favorite.

Herbert Mason, the orphan and the best character, was accused of robbing a man's wallet. Mr. Godfey, the hero's employer was begging Herbert to confess. "I can only say, sir, that I am innocent," said Herbert. Mr. Walton, the owner of the wallet rushed into the room saying he had found the wallet in another place. The hero said "I knew the truth would appear. I trusted to God, and tried to do my duty and it cleared me."

Herbert Mason, the best character in the story, was a handsome, well grown boy of fourteen, and a general favorite in the village of Waverly. Herbert's attainment were considerably in advance of those of other boys of his age in the neighborhood. He knew something of Latin and French. Though studious he was not a bookworm, but was distinguished in athletic sports, popular with boys of his age.

The story, as most stories end, ended very well. Herbert went to Europe to study. Thomas, his cousin, was turned out of the counting room. Ralph, the Ranger, was a good friend of the hero. It was by this means that Herbert went to Europe.

During the Christmas holidays I had nothing to do. When Christmas day was near the days went slow and that is when I read the whole story. "Try and Trust." I had nothing to do so I finished this book in a day and a half.

—Viola Thomas.

REBECCA FROM SUNNYBROOK FARM

The author of this skillfully written book is the noted Kate Douglas Wiggin. This book " Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," is a book that will hold your interest. It is different from most books one reads. I enjoyed reading and certainly liked this book very much.

The best and most interesting part of the book I would love to tell you of. Would you like to hear it? The afternoon was hot as Rebecca, the heroine of this story, and her friend, Emma Jane, rode down the road in an old wagon. They were selling soap for the poor Simpson's so that the Simpson's might get them a lamp. They found it was not an easy job.

As they drew up in front of a house, Emma Jane said: "Its your turn Rebecca, and I am glad, too. I have not gotten over trembling from that last place yet" (A lady had put her head out of an upstairs window and called: "Go away little girl; whatever you have in your box we don't want any.") "I don't know who lives here and all the blinds are shut in front. If there's nobody at home you must not count it, but take the next house as "ours."

As she reached the side door she saw a good looking man who was well shaven and had well trimmed moustache and well ffitting clothes. He was pulling corn. She wanted to run away but she could not.

"Is the lady of the house in?" asked Rebecca.

"I'm the lady of the house. What could I do for you?" said the stranger, whimsically.

"Have you ever heard of——I mean——do you need any soap?" querried Rebecca.

"So I look as if I did?" he responded.

The best character in this book is Rebecca. Her clothes were few and she had only a few good ones. She was sweet, sincere and always helpful. She said and did many cute things and often got into trouble about them, although she didn't see what she had done.

In the end of this sweet story, her aunt Miranda, who had been mean to her had willed her a beautiful home. Here her family came to live. She and Mr. Ladd, the soap buyer, became intimate friends.

It took me about a week to read all of this story. This I did during the cold month of December.

—Vivian Whites.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

The author of my book is Mara. She is a very interesting author, I think.

The book "Baree, Son of Kazan," is the best book that I have ever read. This story was interesting to me because I like stories about dogs and wild animals. I like this story because it turned out as I wanted it to.

The best character in the story is Baree, the half breed wolf. He has fights and he also gets shot. But he is brave and a very strong wolf. Baree has a very beautiful and black fur coat. The trappers try to catch him, but he has so much dog in him that he can scent the tracks and he knows what a trap looks liks for he was once caught in one.

The most exciting part in the story is where the old fur buyer comes in and Baree jumps at him. He is taking watch over the young girl in the cabin. This old fur buyer tries to get the girl to marry him, but she will not.

The story ends with Baree still out in the woods. He does not find his parents or his home but he finds him another home in the woods.

Yes, I read all of the story.. If I had read steadily I would have finished the book in three hours. I started the book before Christmas and finished it before school started.

—Bill Storey.

TROOP NO. 53
J. W. Haygood, Scoutmaster

The meeting was opened by the reciting of the Scout Oath and Laws. After this we had a test on the Oath and Laws given by Mr. Haygood Then the Troop enjoyed wrestling and boxing matches.

We wish to annouuce that only one boy will be taken into the Troop as that will give us a full troop of 32 boys. The Black Bear Patrol is in charge of the program and we wish that all of the boys of the Troop will be there to see the program.

TROOP NO. 32
Bennie Archer, Scoutmaster

Troop No. 32 held its regular weekly meeting Friday night in the Scout Hall. The animal show to be given the following night under the auspices of Troops 32 and 53 was the chief topic for discussion.

Everyone was favorably impressed and volunteered their services for selling tickets and distributing hand bills. The opening act of the play consisted of a group of boys from both troops in a camp scene singing camp songs.

The Child Reader

by
MARJORIE BARROWS
Editor, Child Life Magazine.

Marjorie Barrows

One afternoon many years ago a wharf rat on San Francisco Bay wandered into the Oakland Public Library. There, opening a bound volume of a children's magazine, he stumbled upon a story. It was a story about a boy like himself—a runaway, a gang leader of wharf rats, who had certain semi-piratical adventures, but who, after a hard lesson, learned of better ways of living his life.

Making of Jack London.

The dramatic, exciting story awoke in the young reader the uneasy consciousness of his own wrong actions. He walked out of that library resolving to lead just as adventurous a life but one that carried with it a clear conscience. So he joined the Fish Patrol, cruised about the bay, fought poachers, and before long began to write stories about his adventures.

That boy was Jack London. The experience of this famous writer occurs, in a rather less dramatic fashion, in the life of every boy or girl.

Careful investigators have discovered that next to persons, nothing has more influence on children than what they read. If a hero they admire acts under certain circumstances as they themselves would like to act, they'll remember it.

They Imitate the Hero.

And when the time comes, they'll unconsciously be influenced by that hero's action and try to do likewise. The heroine's kindness, ambition, steadfastness, loyalty, the hero's resourcefulness, quick-wittedness, painstaking qualities, courage, magnaminity, modesty—all these examples "sink in" and are emulated both now and later. One story with hidden character-building values is worth a dozen sermons from parents or teachers.

Let us try to see that this sort of a story, full of plenty of adventure for the boy, full of interesting plots and characters for the girl, is convenient for them to pick up.

Jack London isn't the only one to be tremendously influenced by the printed word.

Lucky Scrap Jelly

Chip up pieces of candied fruit—you must have at least one-half cupful and you can use twice that amount if you like. If no candied fruit is around, use broken nut meats or small bits of candy or raisins or dates stoned and finely cut.

Make 2 cupfuls of lemon or orange gelatine. Pour the gelatine into a mould and, when it is cool and begins to "set" add the diced candy. When serving time comes, turn the mould upside down over the serving dish. Wrap it tightly with a cloth wrung out of very hot water and the jelly will fall onto the dish.

A garnish of whipped cream or condensed milk, whipped, makes the dish prettier.—Child Life Magazine.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat—to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

THE TAX MENACE A GROWING CRISIS

By FRANCIS H. SISSON
President American Bankers Association

F. H. SISSON

NO danger, economic or social, more seriously menaces our life, happiness and prosperity than the rising tide of taxes which threaten to engulf us. This is not simply a problem of the depression. It has been developing for many years, growing more serious all the time. The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend the problem will not end with the depression. It will continue to weigh down and retard progress for an indefinite period.

In city, county, state and nation the orgy of spending has run on. It is estimated that in the United States the total cost of all government is nearly five times what it was before the World War. Many localities have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy by their expenditures, while many have saddled their citizens with a debt burden that will darken their lives and hamper their progress for years.

The total cost of Federal, state and local government in the United States is estimated at forty-six million dollars a day. Based on national income in 1930, this represents about one-fifth the total income of our people, or about $110 for every individual in the nation. Total taxes in 1931 are estimated to have taken more than 22 per cent of the national income. It is occasion for serious thought on the part of everyone when one day's income out of every four or five must be contributed to the maintenance of government machinery.

United States Government expenditures were reduced one hundred and forty million dollars during the first quarter of the current fiscal year. The recent action of bankers in calling a halt to unnecessary expenditures of New York City as prerequisite to loans will reduce the cost of government in the country's metropolis, which is second in its expenditures to only the Federal Government. No state in the Union, in fact, no other government on this hemisphere, spends half as much as this one city. These savings in Federal and municipal costs are only the beginning of a movement needed throughout the country, if we are to be led out of depression into prosperity.

Unless the people can be made to realize that money for governmental expenditure can come only from their own pockets as taxpayers, casting depressing effects on both individual effort and general business, there is an imminent threat that we may be forced to meet economic difficulties similar to those that have so seriously handicapped other countries.

The idea that money for these mounting extravagances can be raised by following the slogan "Soak the Rich" is utterly fallacious, for such a policy will simply exterminate "the rich" and eliminate sources of revenue. It is also important to realize that corporate business in this country is in no position to withstand the effects of indefinite advances in tax rates. Current earning reports reveal that fact beyond shadow of doubt. The tax base must be broadened, and it therefore seems likely that Congress will be called upon to reconsider the sales tax.

A Country Editor Looks at Banking

LOS ANGELES.—While the idea of the guarantee of bank deposits by some legally enforced plan seems to appeal to many people who give it casual thought, the fact is that it has not only failed in every instance in the eight states where the experiment was tried, but actually produced unsound banking and increased the number of failures, it was declared by the recent convention of the American Bankers Association held here.

"Guaranty of bank deposits carries an idea that naturally appeals to people in general on casual consideration," the declaration said. "However, in principle it is unsound and in practice it is unworkable. It has been tried in eight States and it has not only failed in every case, but it has resulted in increasing the number of bank failures. Taxing properly managed banks to make up losses of failed banks is not only unfair and unreasonable, but it weakens the whole banking structure. Again, guaranty of deposits places the incompetent and reckless banker on an equal footing with the able and conservative banker, which encourages bad banking at the expense of sound banking. We are therefore opposed to the passage of any law carrying a guaranty of bank deposits and believe that it is against the interest of the people of the United States to develop any such system."

PINEAPPLE TAKES NEW ROLE

Canned pineapple, familiar food delicacy on the American table for so many years, is seen today in a new role. New food research has found that canned pineapple is a valuable source of five necessary minerals and vitamins A, B, and C. Authorities recommend two slices or an equivalent amount in crushed pineapple or tidbits in the daily menu as an aid in maintaining health. In addition to its mineral and vitamin content pineapple has been found to be a valuable aid to digestion of proteins such as meat and eggs and to the prevention and relief of acidosis. A beneficial dietetic change wrought by temperatures during the canning process is said to make these findings true of the canned rather than the raw fruit. Smart hostesses following the new dietetic advice, are serving the new pineapple cup made from the canned crushed fruit or tidbits as the first course for dinner or two slices for the breakfast fruit, luncheon salad or for the dinner dessert. And their guests proclaim it delicious.

College Degree Worth $100,000, Experts Find

Statisticians and research investigators have at last run down the elusive and much discussed dollar and cents value of a college education and have fixed it at $100,000. Their survey reveals that the average untrained boy goes to work at the age of 14, earns less than $1,700 a year, so that his income from 14 to 60 totals $64,000. The high school graduate, they find, starts work at 18, reaches his maximum income of $2,800 at 50 and by 60 has earned a total of $88,000. The college graduate, they learned, starts his career at about 22, has caught up with the high school graduate by 30 and at 60 is earning from $6,000 to $8,000 a year with a total earning at 60 of between $160,000 and $200,000. Figures from the same survey produced by the statistical department of Union Central Life Insurance Company show that out of 1,000 children entering grade school only 23 graduate from college. Lack of funds is revealed as the main reason for leaving school and educational insurance is now advocated as a means of giving a higher percentage the "break" which a college degree assures.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Collier and family of Hearne spent Saturday here with her mother, Mrs. Simmie Burns, Sr.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had bad, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

MANY MOURN DEATH OF MISS DAISY LEAKE

Cameron friends were saddened because of the death of Miss Daisy Leake Friday, January 27 in a hospital in Texarkana while en route from Temple to Cleveland, Ohio, in company with two of her brothers.

Miss Leake had lost her widowed mother on Sunday before and was returning home with her brothers to spend a couple of months. She became ill on the train and was removed to a hospital where she lived only a few hours. Her remains were brought to Temple and laid to rest Saturday morning.

Miss Leake was nationally known as a business woman and had been second vice president of the Business and Professional Women's Club federation and served on many national convention programs. She was president of the Texas State Federation for two years, and was a charter member of the Temple club serving as president for two terms.

Miss Leake was educated in Temple and Dallas and won the oratorical medal of Temple high school in 1903 and taught school in Temple for several years, later was a member of the Temple school board. She was superintendent of Scott and White's hospital for three years, and later was successful in the insurance business and was prominent in all social and civic affairs in her home town. She was a native of Temple and had many friends in Cameron where she visited and was frequently a guest of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Misses Ann Stallworth and Leila Woolley attended the funeral in Temple Saturday morning. The local club sent floral offerings.

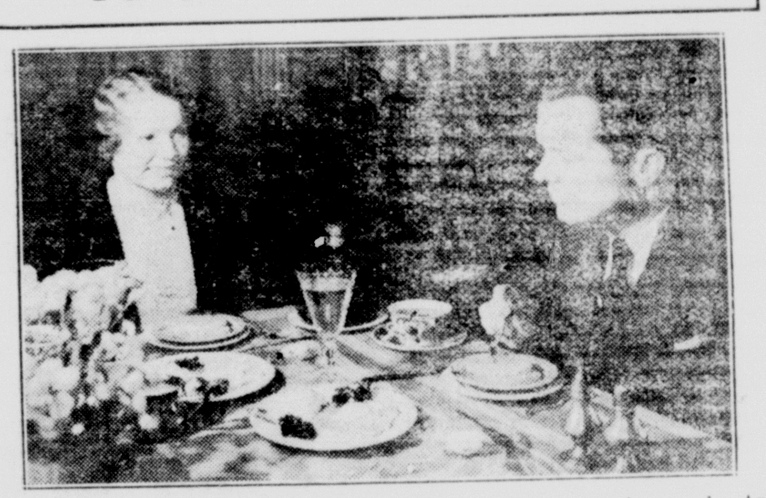
TO GLORIFY BREAKFAST



Toast and coffee and the morning paper!

Coffee and toast and the morning paper!

Ho hum! That's the great American breakfast—prepared with misgivings, swallowed in haste, not remembered long enough even to be repented.

It is perhaps a great pity that the days when American breakfasts were mighty affairs, suited to pioneering activities, are gone forever. Yet there are still ways to arouse even lagging modern breakfast appetites.

One is to add the delicious tang of pineapple to the morning meal. And nutritional studies have recently revealed a definite health reason for the addition. For canned pineapple has been found to be a generous source of vitamins A, B, and C and five essential minerals. It is also revealed as an aid to the digestion of proteins such as meat and eggs and to the prevention and relief of acidosis.

So here is a modern breakfast suited to modern needs—appealing to the appetite, healthful and simple to prepare—two slices of pineapple, a cereal if desired, two poached eggs on toast, and coffee.

MARY WARE'S PROMISED LAND

The author Amee Fellows Johnston, has so beautifully put into this story the adventures of Mary Ware, her sorrows and her happy times. This book is from the series of "The Little Colonel" and Mary Ware is the Little Colonel's friend. This book engaged my attention as soon as I read the first paragraph, and I have certainly enjoyed it all the way through.

The part of th e story that invited my curosity was when Mary Ware made a speech in the opera house before thousands and thousands of people. She had visited the tenement houses and had seen the tragic lives which the people there had to live, with poverty and filth. She was working for a very sweet lady that was trying to bring before the public the terrible things which were happening there, so they would make the owners fix the place in order that the poverty stricken people could live better. Mrs. Blythe, who was to make the speech that night, found at the last minute that her husband was at death's door and she asked Mary to make the speech for her. Mary made the speech and did it so beautifully that half the crowd were crying. Later she found that her speech had brought the people to a conclusion that the owners were not suited for their places and new owners were selected to take the old ones places. The papers were full of the things that Mary had said in her speech.

The story ended in a most satisfying way which told of her marriage to a friend which she had loved deep down in her heart always. She had her husband went to live happily ever afterward in Loydsboro Valley. Kentucky. Mary had called Loydsboro her promised Land.

I read all of the story and it took me three weeks to read it.

—Elizabeth Sprott.

TOM SWIFT AND HIS MOTORADE

I have just finished reading a very interesting story. The story was made up of inventions. I liked it because there was a boy in it about The best part of the story was my age. It was written by Appleton. when Tom was taking his father's patent to Washington. He was doped and the invention was stolen.

The best character was "Eradicate" Sampson Johnson, an old negro. He had a mule caled Boomerrange.

The story ended when Tom and Eradicate overtook the thieves in an old haunted house.

I read all the story. It took me about one week. I read it at home in the afternoons.

—Connie Strickland.

THE TWO PENNILESS PRINCESSES

Charlotte Mary Younge is the author of this remarkable book. It is a story of adventure taken mostly from Scottish customs. I liked this book very much; however it was rather hard to understand.

These princesses went on a journey across Scotland and France to Germany to see their beloved sister, "Georgie of the Red Peel" an earl's son (unknown) followed the elder of the princesses and with the help of a lord, rescued the two princesses.

"Georgie of the Red Peel" as he called himself (whose real name was George Douglas) was the son of a Scottish "yearl" who joined the crowd in which the princesses were members, to be with the elder of them. He after following her for a year, rescued her from an old nobleman who was in love with her also.

The story ended by the two princesses going back to Scotland married.

Several times while reading this book I had to refer to the explanation of certain Scottish words. I read all of this book during the holidays. It took me several days to read it, as it was educational and I added many new words to my vocabulary.

—Dorothy Welch.

TOMMY DANE OF SONORA

I have just read a very interesting book "Tommy Dane of Sonora," by A. Grove Day. I think this book was very interesting for it was written for pleasure.

The most exciting part of the book was when Tommy was hunting and a man came over the hill and told him that some Mexicans were after him because he had some gold. They had a battle with the Mexicans and of course won.

I think the best character in the story was Tommy Dane because he was a hero in everything he tried to do. He was a good shot at man or animal.

The story ended when Tommy found his daddy and they got rich from the gold mine.

I read all of the story in about 2 weeks. I just read in my spare time. I read the book in the first part of this six weeks.

—James Brogdon.

For composition work last week we wrote about "January ' The two following compositions are examples of the work:

LUCK OF LOWRY

"Luck of Lowry," a good adventure story, was written by Miss Bacon. The girl in the story was about my age, and when she got in a new adventure, I would get very enthusiastic and read when I should have been doing other things.

Barbara had overheard the butler and the maid making plans to get a treasure out of an old well at nine o'clock on a certain day. She got up at three o'clock on this day and went to the old well. She got the treasure and was climbing up the well steps when the butler's head was stuck over the rim of the well. He had a gun in his hand and told Barbara to give him the treasure. She refused, and the maid who came up with a knife tried to make her give up the treasure but at that time the officers came and took the butler and maid off to prison. Barbara kept the treasure.

The most interesting and the best character in this book is BarbaraWyeth. She was a beautiful girl of sixteen years of age. She was tall and slender, with waving bronze hair. She had a beautiful olive complexion with dark brown eyes.

The end of the book was the best part. Barbara got the treasure, a friend got to go off to college and another friend got to live in a beautiful home with her two aunts.

I read and enjoyed every line of the book "Luck of Lowry," and I think every girl would enjoy it eqully as much. I read this book in my leisure time over a week end this six weeks and I completed it in about six or seven hours.

—Helen Ryan.

HOW JANUARY GOT ITS NAME

January is the first month of the year c,ontaining 31 days. This month was added to the calendar by the Roman Numa and was named after their God, Janus, which means the God of Beginnings. It was considered the first month of the year by the Romans after 251 B. C. In 1751 the Parliment in England adopted January as the first month of the year. All civilized nations recognize this month as the first of the year.

Janus, for whom January was named, was the porter of heaven. He was represented with two heads because a door faced two ways, and he had to guard both sides. A feast as held in honor of Janus on the New Year.

—Ella Bess Haygood.

FLOWER AND BIRTHSTONE OF JANUARY

The Snowdrop is the flower of January. It is an early spring flower with a white drooping bell It's resemblance to a lady's earring or "drops" as they were caled in the sixteenth century, gave it its name. It means true friendship.

The ancient and most common birthstone of January is the garnet, but the modern is the hyacinth or jacinth. The garnet is usually a transparent red but sometimes a white, green, yellow, brown or black. From Arizona comes the finest variety. The hyacinth is a reddish-brown stone resembling a Spanish topaz, and is worth a litle more than the garnet. They mean constancy and fidelity.

The Child Reader

by MARJORIE BARROWS
Editor, Child Life Magazine.

Marjorie Barrows

I met Bill's father today.

"Bill's six years old," he said. "He's a hard-headed young man and he treats fairy tales with a withering contempt. He likes real stories. He likes simple books about how things happen. Are there any new books that will fit Bill?"

I gave him the names of several new ones, for there are lots of Bills in America today and many authors are writing just the sort of books they like.

Real Adventure Best.

If your Bill doesn't take to fairy tales, to legends, to fables, don't force them on him. Offer him instead Charlotte Kuh's delightful "A Train, A Boat, and an Island"—the story of a real family's real trip to Bermuda. Offer him Heluiz Washburne's fascinating "Letters to Channy"—a real mother's letters of a trip around the world written for her own little boy back home. Offer him "The Pilgrim's Party" or "The Cruise of Mr. Christopher Columbus" by Sadybeth and Anson Lowitz, two humorous and very interesting picture books that acquaint younger readers with stirring history.

Perhaps Bill wants to know more about motormen and firemen and what they really do. Mrs. Kuh's books for small children will help him out there. Perhaps he would like "How It All Began," a book that is delightfully written and illustrated by Janet Smalley. It will tell Bill how primitive man watched the lightning and found he, too, could make fire by twirling two sticks around together. Later man found other ways of heating and lighting and at last we got our matches, gas, oil and electricity. The book goes on, in the simplest fashion, to show the beginnings of messages, of travel, clothing, houses. It is a thrilling sort of real fairy tale that particularly appeals to boys like Bill.

Travel Stories Are Good.

What happens to a real letter after it gets posted may also interest some of our very youngest readers. William Siegel, a Russian artist, tells a simple story about that in "Around the World in a Mailbag." Bob and Betty's letter to their father doesn't reach him in San Francisco. So it is forwarded to China, Russia, France, and even to Egypt. But though the various postmen do their best the letter does not finally reach him until he is back in New York again. The pictures make this book especially attractive.

Here are just a few of the new books for fairy-tale-strikers. Many more are to be found in the libraries and bookstores. Just exactly the book your Bill is looking for is waiting for him there. And it is just the right book for him at the present time.

Take him along and let him help find it!

Miss Mary Ellen Manning has returned from Dallas where she visited her grandmother for some time.

A SUPPER TO SING FOR!

If the sugar-plum tree should come to life!

And honey-dew come from the magic pitcher—wouldn't supper times be jolly for five and seven years olds!

A supper that has all the charm of the sugar-plums and the honey-dew has for dessert a cup of crushed canned pineapple, cool and sweet. Never was anything so good to eat nor so good for growing boys and girls. For nutritional research has recently found canned pineapple to be a valuable source of five minerals, essential to health, as well as a valuable source of vitamins A, B, and C—a discovery that makes the task of mothers much simpler. The delicate flavor and color of pineapple are especially appealing to children. Pineapple is a food which rightly belongs in their own world of magic goodness. When it is served simply—a generous bowlful of crushed pineapple—it is a treat which young Mary and Johnny find suited to their most epicurean tastes. Two slices a day or a cup of crushed fruit is the amount recommended to aid in the maintenance of health and growth.

Miss Leila Lee Batte who is a student in the Southwestern University spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Batte, she was accompanied by Miss Lola Fae Hunt of Corpus Christa and Barton Davis of Georgetown, both students at Southwestern.

We are glad to report that Dr. D. Monroe who is suffering from a broken hip caused by accidently falling some few weeks ago, is improving as rapidly as he can. He is at the home of his son, Frank Monroe, under the constant watch and care of his son, Dr. Elbra Monroe.

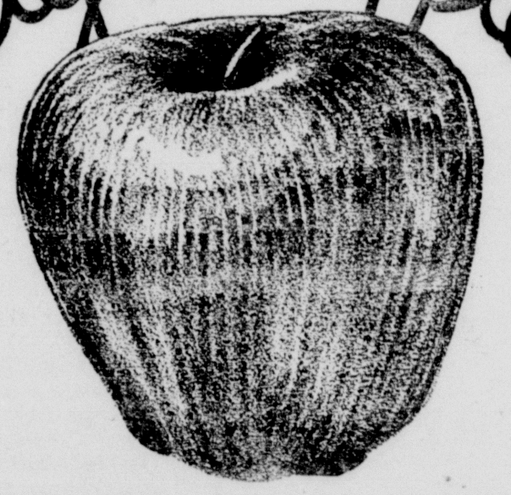
For the price of a Big Red Apple



We all know that the purchase price of a big red apple is only a nickel . . . but, did you realize that for the price of an apple you can cook one good dinner for 15 people or five good meals for three people with natural gas?

This same five cents will pay for enough natural gas to make 165 cups of coffee; will heat enough water for 10 baths; or operate a gas refrigerator for a day and a half. Now when you get right down to brass tacks and consider comfort—convenience—and time saved, natural gas IS the most inexpensive item used in the entire household.
